This Month...

Earth and Sky!

After studying people and cultures we move back to the basics to enjoy the natural world around us, things that we often take for granted in our busy world. Mountains, rivers, oceans, clouds, wind, grass, flowers... All of these combine to make up our wonderful and miraculous world.

April is a wonderful time to study Meteorology, the changing of the weather! From sunshine to showers, storm clouds to rainbows the sky is full of surprises in the spring.

This month we will be creating pieces of art from natural materials we find in our yard and around the neighborhood. We will also be studying the way water works so be sure your arrow has lots of warm clothes in their den.

As we prepare for the buffalo graduation we are taking field trips to the corner school to meet all the wonderful guides there and so our arrows have a chance to explore their new environment with guides they already know and love.
